Compete for a Golden Prize, Given By "The Evening World."

Should husband and wife be near the same age, or should the wife be much younger?

Every reader of THE EVENING WORLD is invited to compete in this contest. Contributions in this contest are subject to similar conditions of those in former competitions: The letters must not be over 200 words in length; they must be written on only one side of the paper and must be addressed to "The Marriage Age Row, New York," Selected communications from thos received will be printed in daily instalments. The best one of all, picked out by competent judges, will win for its writer a prize of a golden double eagle. No letters will be returned unless a request to that effect is made and postage stamps inclosed.

Banks on Love's Blindness. I think there should be no question as to the age of a wife. Why?

In very few cases does a lover know the ge of his sweetheart until he is engaged o her. I don't believe that if he independent to be six or seven years older than imself he would break that engagement, and why should he? He could find no satisfier each of work her was her was the could find no satisfier each of the could find no satisfier each of the could find no satisfier each first the could find an each first the could find no satisfier each first the could find an each first the could find an each first the could find an each first the could find the could sensible reason for such an action.

Love bridges all difficulties. They will live in happiness if each minds their own ness to a certain extent. Avance.

Should Grow Old Together.

Woman ages, 'tis true, but she ages from care, responsibility and sorrow, which can be caused by an older as well as by a younger man.

Why should a young wife mate with a man so much her senior? Her heart is full of youthful feelings, which, if he is young and loves her, no one will be his companion in recreation sooner than she why can her heart and face not keep these useful bearings, if step by step she advances with him?

but the very happiest from beginning to end are those where the parties are as near the same age as possible, no matter at what age the marriage was contracted. The first man, Adam, had only just got started in agricultural pursuits when God saw he wouldn't be any good at all without a woman around? So right off Eve

Even in old size father and mother are still young, to their children and their friends. No? If there is honesty in the ove, trueness in the heart, no men will ind a woman growing old, and no woman will ever feel too old to enjoy all the rhims and fancies of a husband of her

Couples of the same age never have that troublesome thought.

As for women growing older sooner than men that is a false notion. Fifty tyears ago, when American women were old women will find happiness in married life if she has not been "a perfect little lady" at four, wore tight, high-heeled French boots at ten, throwing the spine out of place, and a few years later on a tight corset, combined with late honrs, completing the mental and physical wreck at twenty of what might have been a perfect woman. Nature's priceless gift, good, sound, common sense, does not exist in a diseased body.

Take a man and a woman perfectly delegated in one others ought to women age together quickly. Newark, was real placed was real placed was real placed was real placed was real mind.

Take a man and a woman perfectly developed (none others ought to marry). no matter at what age they meet and truly love each other, they will and can cope with all the vicissitudes of this life, living to a green old age, and still die young.

It looks now as if Jack Dempsey would have to meet Bob Fitzsimmons at the Olympic Athletic Club, New Orleans, or not at all. Fitzsimmons seems decidedly distinctioned to box the Nonparell anywhere but in the Crescent-City.

Dempsey would have preferred the Puritan Athletic Club, but as that organization has puractically disbanded, and as the most liberal inducements seem unable to move Fitzsimmons from his determination to stick to the sunny South, Jack will probably journey to the Guif from Chicago.

He wants to meet the Australian even though the latter does not seem particularly anxious to come into contact with Jack.
